Bee & Beekeeping Catalogue No.2

Bee & Beekeeping books pre 1940 1 – 105

Bee & Beekeeping books post 1940.....106 – 317

This catalogue includes new books we have purchased over the last 12 months or so since our last Bee & Beekeeping book catalogue.

We have continued to use the distinction of pre 1940 and post 1940 books which we hope you find of use.

In quite a few cases, we do have more than one copy of a listed title. These further copies can vary in edition, condition and price, so please do feel free to contact us if you wish.

We also have new copies of 'A World Without Bees' written by Alison Benjamin and Brian McCallum, priced at £9.99.

We are always interested in purchasing large or small collections in our specialist subject areas and are quite happy to travel to view.

New website

In September 2008, we completed work on our new website. We have now listed about 330 bee and beekeeping books, a further 3,600 in our other subject areas and are adding more as we progress. Our catalogue customers will still have first chance to obtain new stock, but the internet allows us to display these books with photographs in many cases to a worldwide audience. If you would like to view our website, its address is www.ardenbooks.co.uk Any feedback would be welcome.

Wisbech. 1845 pp.xxiv, 306 with fold-out engraved frontis. plates, one further fold-out eng. plate (of the apiary at Delabere Park, Berkshire) and 10 other engravings. A rectangular piece of the fep has been cut out, presumably to remove an unwanted signature. The contents are overall in fine condition. In original blind-decorated boards, a little bumped on corners and showing a little wear on the spine. A nice copy. [35792] £60.00
- This edition was revised, enlarged and edited by the Rev. Thomas Clark. 'Nutt lived as a boy at Wisbech. A draper's assistant of no great schooling, he became interested in bees during a long convalescence. He asserts that he invented his collateral hive before ever reading a book on bees. He acquired many patrons and subscribers and made the hive and method very well known. One plate, which first appeared in the 2nd ed., is of the apiary at Delabere Park near Reading, the seat of one of Nutt's patrons the Marquess of Blandford who later became the Duke of Marlborough. The sketch was made by the Duchess when Marchioness of Blandford, and Nutt complains in the 6th ed., that Cotton (238) had 'silently and surrepticiously' taken the sketch and placed it at the end of his list of bee books.'* (Harding 215).

- This is a very good read. Bee and beekeeping information is presented in an amusing and well-informed manner to the reader through the life of a lady who decides to take up beekeeping in mid-life. Rumour has it that the lady may have well been a man and that this work was frowned upon by some in the beekeeping fraternity as being too frivolous. Nevertheless, we think it's an easy and enjoyable way for the beginner to pick up some sound bee and beekeeping information.*
